Martin Luther King Jr.
"I Have A Dream"

On August 28, 1963, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. led a group of about 250,000 people in a historic march from Washington, D.C. to the Lincoln Memorial. He gave a famous speech in which he said, "I have a dream that one day this nation will live up to its promise of equality for all its citizens."

Dr. King's dream was not just for the future, but for the present. He wanted to see a world where people of all colors and religions could live together in peace and harmony. He believed that everyone has the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

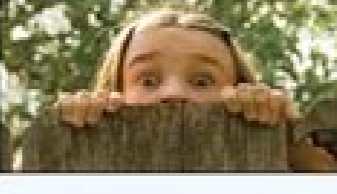

Dr. King's dream is still a goal for many people today. We want to live in a world where everyone is treated equally and with respect. We want to live in a world where we can all work together to make a better future for ourselves and for our children.

Dr. King's dream is a dream of hope. It is a dream of a better world. It is a dream that we can all share.
